Yesterday, &c., &c. The Marder of Mr. Hirth. The police now believe that they have in istody the four men who murdered Mr. eorge P. Hirth last Wednesday night. Until Saturday night the mystery was still un-solved. The evidence brought out at the inquest Saturday morning showed what scanty infor-Saturday morning showed what scanty information the authorities had concerning the murder. The inquest, which had been postponed from Thursday, was commenced at 10 o'clock Saturday morning at the Fourth precinct station. The first witness examined was Mr. James T. Davis, who saw a boy pick up a state of the control of t scarf on an open lot some distance from the sidewalk, near the spot where Hirth was killed, on the morning after the occurrence. It was a red wealen searf with white stripes running lengthwise, and there were two spots of blood on the end of it. Thomas Williams, colored, and Bornard Tally, white, testified to finding Hirth lying on the sidewalk on P street and the conveying of the wounded an to the drug store where he died. Will-m Myers, a colored boy, testified to finding he scarf, and Winfield Taylor testified to aking the boy and the scarf to the Second taking the boy and the scarf to the Second precinct station. Edward Lane, a youth, identified the scarf as belonging to Babe Bedford. Dr. Hartigan recited the result of the postmertem examination. A colored woman named Sarah Taylor was present for the purpose of testifying that the scarf was one belonging to her little daughter, who had lost it on her way to school Thursday morning, but when the scarf was done to her when the scar was the start was deadled. the scarf was shown to bey shadld not identify The little daughter, who was present, ex-simed, "Yes, that's my scarl," but afterward chained, testinate my scar, but alterwant she said it was not here, as her scarf had no black stripe in it. This closed the testimony, and Coroner Patterson, after a short consultation with the inrymen, who stated that they were not satisfied to render a verdict on such insufficient testimony, adjourned the inquest until today at 1 deleck.

THE LATER DEVELOPMENTS. Saturday afternoon information was received om a colored woman named Mary Green tendfrom a colored woman named Mary Green tend-ing to implicate a young colored man named Ben Johnson, a denizen of Hell's Bottom and a well-known thief. Officers were sent to his house, but he could not be found, but Officer West left word for him to come to the Second precinct station, as he was wanted as a wit-ness. Later in the evening, about 7 o'clock, Johnson called at the station and inquired for Officer West. Lieutenaut Johnson immo diately placed him under arrest, and West coming in shortly afterward, had a talk with the prisoner. He told the officer that he was with the party when the murder was com-mitted. This satisfied Lieutenaut Johnson that he had the right man, and he immediately telegraphed the fact of the arrest to headquarters. Major Brock at once instructed him to keep every one away from the prisoner, and to hold him at the station until he was otherwise ordered. The news of the arrest spread like wildfire, and hundreds of persons visited the station-house yesterday, hoping to get a glimpso of Johnson. He was, however, get a glimpso of Johnson. He was, however, kept under strict surveillance, and no one sliowed to see him except the officers and one or two undanuted reporters. A representative of THE NATIONAL REPUBLICAN visited him last evening and found him perfectly cool and ready to tell all he knew of the tragedy. JOHNSON'S STATEMENT. He said that on the night of the murder he was told to meet Baho Bedford. Edward Queenan and Sandy Pinn, as they were going out scretaiding. He met them and shortly before S o'clock they started to go across the lot at Seventeenth and O streets to a church on Nineteenth street. As they walked along Babe Bedford puked up a stone and put it in a seek which he took out of his pecket, saying that he would have use for it. Then the robbery of Hirth was suggested. Johnson knew nothing of a plan to murder him. At the sidewalk on P street Mr. Hirth came along and Bedford sprang toward and struck him with the paving stone. He turned and said, "Babe, don't kill me—you can have what money I have." Redford replied: "You white s— of a b—, I have got you now where I want you;" and struck him again. Queenan and Prim also attacked him at this time, and in a few minutes he was insensible. The crowd then rumminged his peckets and took out his watch and money and stripped the ring off his finger. He (Johnson) did not do anything to Mr. Hirth, but rimply looked on. When the spoils were divided he was given the ring and the other three kept the money and watch. Immediately after the murder they separated and have were seeking pleasure for the was anything about the murder the leaken for the murderer. When he head the visit has dollar, and did it cheereful. Hirth's life was what first directed suspicion to him. Saturday morning it was decided to release some of the prisoners arrested for the murder, against whom no evidence had been found. Queenan and Pinn were among the number. Queenan was held however, on a charge of petit larceny preferred against him. Pinn, when brought out, showed visible signs of agitation. Some apots of blood were found upon his shirt seleves, and upon this it was determined to sleeves, and upon this it was determined to hold him. The onsequies.

The funeral of the late George Philip Hirth, the functal of the late George Philip Riffs, the young man who was murdered last Wednesday evening on P street, was solemnized yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Mount Zion M. E. church, corner Fifteen h and R streets.

The church was draped in mourning, and at 1 than f o'clock it was draped in mounting, and as to o'clock it was given over to the police, so great was the crowd expected. This proved to be a wise measure. By 1 o'clock people began to assemble in front of the church, and at 2 o'clock such a crowd had gathered as would have filled the church twice. At 2:30 o'clock have filled the church twice. At 250 octock the number had been augmented to such a degree that no church in the city could have held it. By 3 o'clock the multitude had become numberless, and it was estimated that not less than 10,000 persons were present. The streets all about were completely blockaded, the crowd extending far more than half a square on every street, and on R street the line bordered Fourteenth. Still, crowds came from all directions. street, and on R street the line bordered Four-teenth. Still, crowds came from all direc-tions—men, women and children, rich and poor, of all denominations. There were ten pews reserved for the immediate monrors. The church was filled, the dears were closed and no more were allowed to enter. Owing to the excellent arrangements by Undertaker W. R. Spear, most ably assisted by the police and the officers of the church, every one within was made confortable, and the aisles were least grantifications of the vast were kept comparatively clear, and the assess were kept comparatively clear, and the vast crowd outside (to its credit) was very orderly. Every one spoke in husbed tones. At the residence of the brother of the decessed on Pierce street, near Filteenth, from which the remains were taken to the church, there was a similar scene. A great crowd gathered there and escorted the remains to the church. There was no service at the house other than a prayer by Rov. Dr. Owen. At & o'clock the funeral party, consisting of his mother and brother and other members of his family. Miss Sinclair, the flarer of the decased, and a number of near friends, entered the church and moved up the right aisle, Dr. Owen reading from the ritual, The casket was covered with floral offerings, smong them a beautiful crown, and a pillow of japonicas, with the initials G. vere commenced with a hymn, "Asleep in Jesus." Dr. Owen then read the burial service amid the sobs of the bereaved. He then proceeded to make a few touching remarks, saying. "What thy hands find to do, do it with all thy might. What I say unto one I say unto all. Watch, for ye know not when the Son of Man come upon you. If you would have the evidence of this, fix your eyes upon the youthful face that now lies before us.
